

AVULSA

OPEN HOUSE, JUNE 4, 1989

IT WAS A FUN DAY!

There was something for everyone! Whether you were 9, 19 or 59, there was a computer game or computer display to challenge the interest of a video game addict. The displays in assembly, engineering, reprographics and other areas evoked interest unparalleled at other open house functions. It proves that everyone nowadays is very interested in the electronics field, interested in what we actually do under this roof, and, if all else failed, there was always something to eat and drink in the cafeteria!

We had about 1700 happy guests at open house. Everyone found the "mood" pens a pleasant surprise and the kids (also the overgrown ones) found the frisbees to be the perfect gift for the summer at the beach.

See if you can find yourself among these pictures.
